

"Stewardship and Financial Health" by Bruce Barkhauer

Because transformative stewardship includes being responsible with our finances, the Stewardship and Financial Health course will provide a biblical foundation about personal finance. Students will learn ten economic principles for building the capacity for generosity.

Topics include constructing a household budget, examining relationships with money, personal finance and family systems, and ways to lower anxiety about money.

This course explores the relationship between Paul's question to Timothy "How can a person manage God's Church if he/she cannot manage his/her own household?"
